

PREFACE

This special issue of the Journal of the Tennessee Academy of Science includes papers presented at the Invited Papers Sessions of the Fourth Annual Symposium on the Natural History of Lower Tennessee and Cumberland River Valleys, held 1 March 1991 at Brandon Spring Group Camp, Land Between The Lakes. Jointly sponsored by Austin Peay State University's Center for Field Biology, Tennessee Valley Authority's Land Between The Lakes, and the Tennessee Academy of Science, the theme of papers presented at this gathering was "The Vertebrates of Tennessee and Kentucky."

All papers in this issue of the Journal were critiqued by one anonymous reviewer, an associate editor, and the Journal editor. A. Floyd Scott was associate editor for papers concerning ichthyology and herpetology; David H. Snyder was associate editor of ornithology and mammalogy papers; and Libby Workman was the Journal editor.

A. Floyd Scott and David H. Snyder
August 1991

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Production of this special issue was made possible by the contributions of many people and groups. Obviously the research, writing, and cooperation of the authors of the papers are at the heart of any such undertaking as this, and we thank them all. The efforts of the cosponsoring organizations, the authors of the dedicatory biographical sketches, and the anonymous reviewers are appreciated. We also thank Julie Brash, who served as a proofreader and did most of the typing; Colleen White, proofreader; Dina Crawford, who assisted with typing; and Libby Workman, who assembled the pieces and melded them into the final product.

SUGGESTED SYMPOSIUM CITATION

Scott, A. Floyd and David H. Snyder, editors. 1991. The vertebrates of Tennessee and Kentucky. Proceedings of the invited papers sessions of the fourth annual symposium on the natural history of lower Tennessee and Cumberland river valleys. J. Tenn. Acad. Sci. 66, No. 4.