Equipment

That Lasts...

In the selection of a microscope, Bausch & Lomb have combined the optical quality, maximum contrast, and the great ruggedness. At every step in design and construction have been planned to give long years of convenient, efficient service under severe classroom usage at a sacrifice of actual quality.

With this instrument the two most important Fraunhofer lines are distinctly visible to the inexperienced observer. The scale of millimeter length is divided into tenths of millimeters providing an accurate arbitrary reference.

The F & L Koenig Teaching Spectroscope

Microscope F S has for years been the standard classroom model. Laboratory Microscope H S A is of research weight and stability. A new series of research caliber can be added as desired.

Model B Halopticon projects slides only. Light easily portable. Model K O S B is of the translucent screen type. Projects either slides or opaque objects. Teacher faces audience.
